To the friends I'll
leave behind!
The nicest gift that I can give
is locked within my heart.
It's not a pretty
picture
or a priceless piece
of art.
It's just a bit of friendship
in a tiny velvet box.
I keep it there, it's safe and sound
for a smile to unlock.
It's not a pretty
package
with a lot of fancy
bows.
But the message that's inside of it is one that you should know.
In this world of hardships
I haven't much to boast
but of all the things
I have in life
I love my friends the most.

Dear Lani,

What can I possibly say but you should have received an award for living with me. I would like to recap some of the highlights of our college days. Freshman year we were roommates — how about the infamous fire drill when you fell and slid into the door and grabbed a washcloth, the ghost that haunted our room, shaving cream battles, and, of course, the biggest highlight, Bob. Then there was Sophomore year. Welcome to the wonderful world of — —, Silent Night, and, of course, the time you tried to push yourself off as being Irish. Then Junior year you left me to go on to bigger things like The Harrisburg Urban Semester and Dickinson College. We still managed to get together. Just think, we're Seniors now. It went so fast. You've been a very special friend to me and I still think we'll be neighbors. You'll always be my favorite Chinese Checker and I love you!

Love always,
Joni

Class of 1988

I asked God for strength, that I might achieve,
I was made weak that I might learn humbly to obey . . .

I asked for health that I might do greater things
I was given infirmity, that I might do better things . . .

I asked for riches that I might be happy.
I was given poverty, that I might be wise . . .

I asked for power, that I might have the praise of men,
I was given weakness, that I might feel the need of God . . .

I asked for all things that I might enjoy life,
I was given life, that I might enjoy all things . . .

I got nothing that I asked for — but everything I had hoped for,
Almost despite myself, my unspoken prayers were answered.

I am among all men most richly blessed.

WHAT IS A FRIEND?

Someone who listens to your problems when they have problems of their own — Someone who gets you up for fire drills when you're totally incoherent — Someone who doesn't yell when you wake them up for an 8 o'clock class, which they didn't even have — Someone who has a smile for you at the end of a long day — Someone with whom you can be yourself.

My Squirrel Tree

Looking out of my window,
through my plant filled sill;
sitting at my desk,
studying still.
My eyes often wander
away from my books,
to the bright outdoors
and the animal's nooks.
There's a lively squirrel home
in the nook of my tree.
Every time I gaze outward,
I forget about me.
My troubles are gone, my studies are done;
It makes me remember what it was to have fun.

SPORTS

For Wilson College athletics, 1981-82 was an active year. Under their first full year as the Wilson Phoenix, Wilson teams could point to a pictorial representation of their new mascot. Darcy Mateyka won the contest to draw the Phoenix, and the result was an intelligent, athletic-looking Phoenix, right in the Wilson tradition!

Six Wilson teams played under the symbol of the Phoenix in 1981-82. In the fall, there was field hockey and volleyball. The field hockey team's season ended with the selection of the Central Penn team. Placing on the first team from Wilson was Cindy Pope; on the second team, Wilson placed Malia Brumley, Gina Rainey, Pamela Sports, and Eileen Drotleff.

Both the field hockey and volleyball teams prepared for their seasons with rigorous summer camps held the week before other students arrived for the first semester. Neither team will soon forget the new rope and obstacle course acquired by the College over the summer. The volleyball team survived the training session and played its last season under Coach Rowena Murray. Several events highlighted the team's season. The first was a tri-meet, in which Wilson finished second. At the end of the season, the team was in another tournament, in which it finished fourth. The team looks forward to even greater success in its next season!

As the weather grew colder, field hockey and volleyball drew to a close, and the basketball and gymnastics seasons began. The basketball team improved on its previous season's record, finishing by hosting its annual tournament. In the Wilson tournament, the host team finished fourth. Against difficult competition, Wilson placed two players on the All-Tournament Team: Kathy LaTulippe, who made the first team, and Malia Brumley, who made the second team.

While the basketball players were traveling from one basketball court to another, Wilson's gymnastics team was busy, too. After a highly successful season, the team hosted the first NCAA Division II-III Regional Women's Gymnastics Championships. Again the team finished well. Leading Wilson in the meet was Dana Brown, who finished fourth all-around in the entire meet. Included in this impressive showing were a second-place finish on the beam, and fifth place on the bars. Although the team will miss senior Liz Verhey, the rest of the team will be intact for another fine season.

The spring brought daffodils and crocuses to the Wilson campus, and it also brought lacrosse and tennis. The lacrosse team had many new players and a new coach. The lacrosse season included several key victories, the last of which was against the Alumnae lacrosse team on May Weekend, closing out the season.

The Wilson College tennis team also had a new coach. The team was inexperienced, but it had several fine moments. One of those was its trip to Lancaster Bible College — the Wilson team won every match, both singles and doubles! The team will be without senior Ayoma Fernando, but its top seed, Lilamani DeSoysa, was only a freshman. The team concluded its season on a light note, as the leading competitors in the May Day Tennis Tournament.

All of the athletic teams of Wilson College's 1981-82 season, then pointed to one fact: The Wilson Phoenix will rise again in 1982-83!

In Recognition of Her Friendship, Inspiration and Unwavering Commitment,
In the Most Difficult Times, to the Wilson College Community.*

Dear Reader,

The Class of 1983 has the dubious distinction of being pioneers of sorts in the rebuilding of the College following its struggle to reopen. Dealing with the College's changes and crises while dealing with our own inner growth and change has not always been easy. It is here that we have made life-long friends, endured our worst disasters and experienced our greatest happiness. Wilson has built for us a foundation upon which our lives may proceed and it is upon this foundation that the strength and potential of our futures lies. If the world were only half so frightening and challenging a place there could still be no better preparation than our time spent here. It has been no bed of roses, but as a wise woman once said, it is better to rejoice because the thorn bushes have roses than to weep because the rosebushes have thorns.

This book is the product of the combined efforts of many talented Wilson women. I am indebted to all of them for their perseverance and willingness to take on more when there was already impossibly much to do.

Commencement

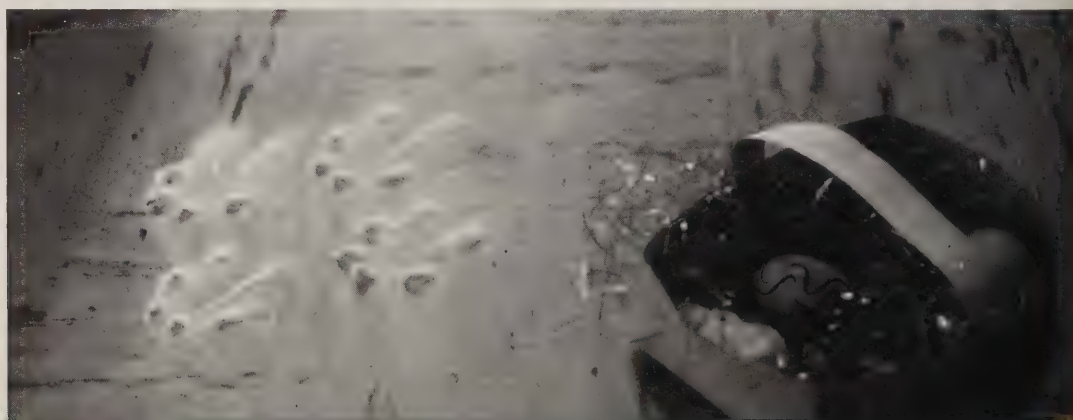

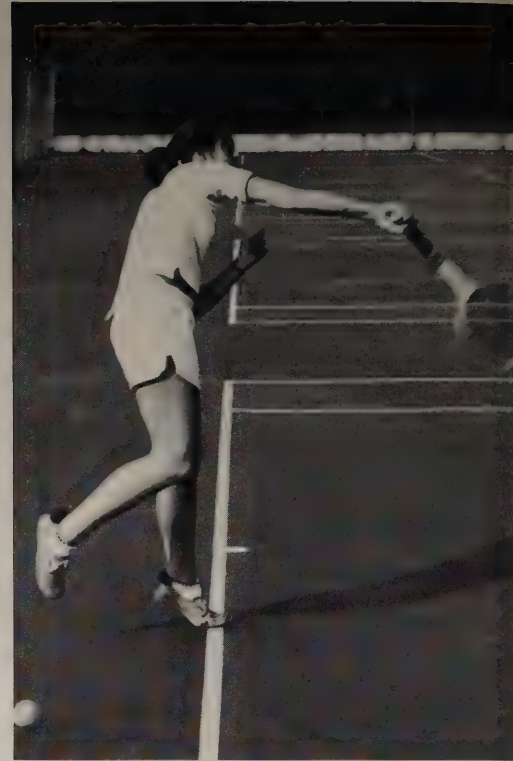

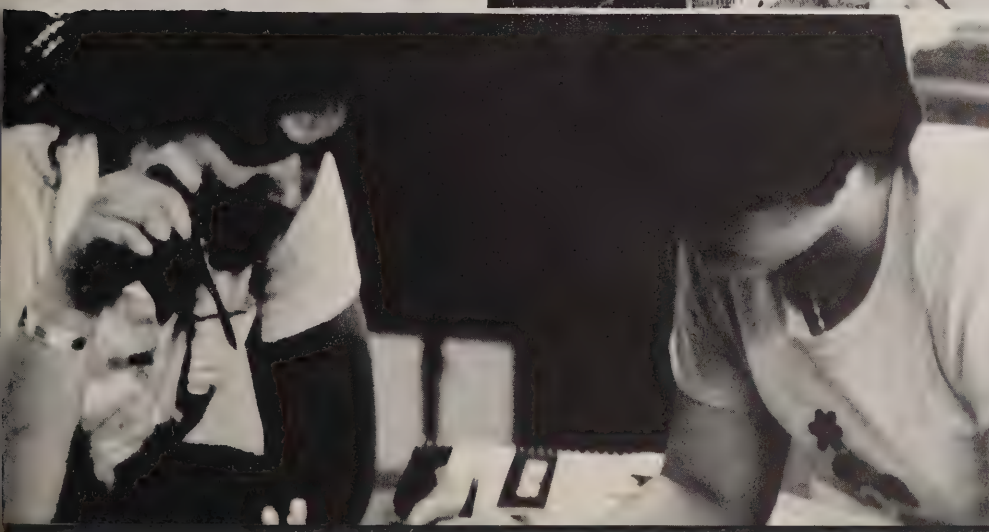

One morning in the summer of 1867 Dr. Tryon Edwards, then pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Hagerstown, dropped into the study of the Rev. James W. Wightman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Greencastle, and put the question: "Brother Wightman, will you join us in organizing a Female Seminary in Chambersburg?" Without a moment's hesitation, he brusquely answered: "No, Sir, I will have nothing to do with it." Astonished, as he showed by his looks, and seemingly rebuffed at the beginning of his mission, he started backward, threw up his hands, and simply exclaimed: "Why?" Mr. Wightman quietly replied: "Because I do not believe in the female education of women." This was further puzzling, but its explanation immediately followed: "I'll tell you what I will do. If you will agree to organize a first-class college, affording to young women facilities for a thorough education, such as are now afforded by first-class colleges to young men, I will enter into it, heart and soul." "Why," he exclaimed, "the very thing; let us do it."

Paul Swain Havens
from History of an Idea

Summer is fading
The wind's a little cold
I feel the seasons as they're turning in my soul
And I'm feeling kind of lonely
But I'm mainly ok
I'm just all I can handle at the moment
Feeling my changes
Feeling my pain
Turning it over . . .
Oh one thing's for certain
One thing's for sure
I just cannot fight with anybody
Any more
All that old righteous anger
Just ate me to the core
And all I have left are these moments
Of turning for comfort
Turning to friends
Turning it over . . .

...e we educating women for? To raise this
...n is to face the whole problem of women's ...society. We are uncertain about the end of ...en's education precisely because the status of women in our society is fraught with contradictions and confusion.
